Counseling Tools for Kids in Schools

Brad Mason, LSSP, LPA, LPC

Workshop at The Plant
August 3, 2017

Kids need a little more structure and planning to counsel! Are you ready?

Workshop participants are provided with a reproducible PDF book of over 150 pages of ready-set-go forms and templates with explanation and instructions.

Categories of skills taught in this workshop include interview and evaluation, goal-setting, cognitive-behavioral, brief solution-focused, behavior management, peer relations skills, and emotional coping skills. A variety of frequent interactive exercises will be conducted for an experiential and memorable learning experience. This workshop is fun, challenging, and inspiring. The hundreds of therapists and psychologists who have been part of this workshop have found it engaging and valuable.

Target Populations: Strategies taught will cover K-12, and be appropriate both for general education populations as well as special education populations including children presenting with Autism Spectrum, ADHD, Serious Emotional Disturbance, as well as problems with anxiety, depression, and anger/aggression.

You don't have the time to research and plan what to do in your counseling sessions. You have to answer calls, attend meetings, fill out forms, do evaluations, and write reports. Children need more structure, planning, and support for their counseling to be engaging and effective. You really have your hands full if you are striving to reach and teach emotional and behavioral self-control to kids on the Autism Spectrum, with ADHD, or Serious Emotional Disturbance. You really care about the kids and helping them demonstrate successful, observable behavioral outcomes. Now you have the tools you need, the ready to go forms and templates, to sit right down and save the day!
