Brad,

The students and faculty are still talking about what a wonderful conference you provided for us. They all learned a lot, and the first classes (grad and undergrad) on Monday were devoted to discussing what they learned from you!!!!!!! We appreciate the excellent job you did as a presenter. The faculty were very impressed also.

Thanks for the valuable information over the last two days. I was wondering if you could email me the list of executive functions and corresponding tasks.

Mr. Mason,

The conference this weekend was wonderful! I left today with many new ideas and ways of thinking that I am very anxious to try with my students! I was wondering if you could please e-mail me a copy of your happy cats and sad puppy paper. I have several children that will benefit from this system!!!

I know there were a few more papers you said you could e-mail if we were interested, and I would really appreciate it if you could send them to me! Thank you again for sharing so many new techniques and ways of looking at different situations!

Hello,

Our team really enjoyed your conference this weekend. It has really ignited some exciting discussion and a flood of ideas between us! We'd really love to have the additional information on executive thinking that you mentioned.

Thank you for your dedication to the topics you discussed. We enjoyed seeing the work you've done and examples of the progress down the road that hopefully our students will achieve.

Thanks so much!

Hi Mr. Mason,

I, along with other staff members from our district, attended your conference this weekend. It was informative and we came away with a new perspective on the role of executive functioning in children with Asperger's, Autism, and ADD. You mentioned that you have a list of ways to facilitate executive functioning skills in these children. Could you please send that list to me and I will disperse it to my co-workers?

Mr. Mason,

I attended the conference you spoke at last weekend in San Marcos. I cannot express my gratitude enough. I have felt very confident in my ability to teach syntax, morphology, etc. to this population. My short comings have been in giving them socially appropriate communication. You gave real life strategies for furthering development in that area.

During the conference you said you had a quick evaluation for executive functions that you could email to us. I would love to receive a copy. I think you also said you had a list of activities to address the different areas pertaining to executive functions as well. I would love any information you have to give.

Jackie-

Brad does a great job of presenting the information, then giving specific examples of what to do. "Your words become what they think they are." I love this because it reminds me that how I approach a situation and the words I choose is so important.

MANY THANKS!!!!!!!!!!
